

ROBERTSON AND DUKE ARE UNDER ARREST AND IN JAIL

To his wife he said he would get bonds and return within a short while.

The officers and their prisoner got into the hack and rode all over town in search of the county attorney, so that the arraignment might take place and an effort be made to get bonds. The official was not found, and a start was made for the county jail, when Duke asked permission to go back and see his wife. It was readily granted, the sheriff accompanying his prisoner into the house.

Here the situation became tragic. When Duke informed his wife, who is in delicate health, that he was unable to get bonds and would have to "stay uptown" all night, the suffering woman swooned and fell into his arms unconscious.

Many hands, including those of Sheriff Naylor, took a part in the resuscitation of the frail little wife. It was a scene to excite the keenest, deepest sympathy for those who must bear the great burden of the trouble. When she had recovered from her faint, Mrs. Duke turned to her husband with the words:

"Harry, you haven't had your supper," and in a pleading voice she asked the sheriff to allow him to eat some thing.

The request was granted, and in the course of five minutes coffee was on the table for all in the party. Mrs. Duke, insisting upon her husband's custodians, even, sitting down to the hurried meal.

There was only one who did not eat. Harry Duke's broken-hearted but devoted wife.

Duke was taken to the office of his attorney, S. H. Lewis, and after a few minutes' conversation with him, was driven to the county jail, where he occupies a cell on the second floor outside the rotatory.

He is in wretched mental condition last night, being almost as greatly unnerved as was Robertson early in the week. He had no callers, except newspaper men, to whom he had nothing to say regarding the case.

Duke's friends say there is scarcely a doubt that he will raise the amount of his bail. Mrs. Duke, it is said, will go upon her husband's bond for about $12,000. Attorney S. H. Lewis, Duke's counsel, had no statement to make last night. He considers $20,000 an excessive bond, and will make an effort to have that figure brought down some. The assistant cashier will be arraigned before Justice Nielsen at 10 o'clock this morning.

ROBERTSON IS ARRESTED AND FAILING TO GIVE BOND IS LODGED IN JAIL

Detective Thacker went to the office of the county attorney shortly before 4 o'clock in the afternoon and applied for warrants against the alleged defaulters. He invited Messrs. Christensen and Loofbourrow to accompany him to the bank and look into the evidence. The three visited the institution and the two county officials were shown the books claimed to have been manipulated by the accused men.

Returning to the office, the county attorney and his assistant drew up the complaint, and at 4:15 warrants for Duke and Robertson were placed in the sheriff's hands.

Deputy Sheriff Raleigh went to the Knutsford and served the warrant upon Robertson. The latter sent for Attorney Lippman and A. J. Davis. As soon as they arrived the entire party went quietly down the back stairs and got into a carriage in the alley between the Knutsford and the Manitou.

The drive was quickly made, and in the city and county building, and in the inner office of the county attorney, where Justice C. M. Nielsen was waiting, Mr. Lippman, on behalf of his client, waived the reading of the complaint and entered a plea of not guilty, then asked that a bond be fixed.

Assistant County Attorney Loofbourrow said the state wanted a bond of $20,000 for each defendant, which would cover the deficit alleged, with no objection being made by Robertson's attorney, Justice Nielsen fixed the bond at that sum. The state announced that it was not ready to fix a date for the hearing.

Word reached the office about this time that the deputies who had gone out in search of Duke had failed to find him, and the officials decided to wait no longer for the absent defendant. Robertson, accompanied by his attorney and Deputy Sheriff Raleigh, walked down the side streets to the county jail, and the accused teller was placed in the women's ward on the second floor. An effort was made to secure bonds for Robertson last night, and this failing he remained in jail.

DETECTIVE THACKER TELLS HOW THE MONEY WAS EMBEZZLED FROM THE BANK

J. N. Thacker, chief of the Wells-Fargo detective bureau at San Francisco, who swore to the city was made known by The Herald yesterday, talked with unusual freedom about the case last night, after Robertson and Duke were behind the bars.

"This crooked work," said Mr. Thacker, "has been going on for ten years, and should have been discovered before, although it was possible for the two guilty men to ward off the discovery for a long while. The defalcations were accomplished by a conspiracy between the two, for one man could not have done it. Their system has been to forge an order for money from some large outside depositor, and when it became necessary, forge another order upon another account to replace the first money taken.

"For example, suppose the defaulters wanted $5,000. In various parts of this state and in other states there are depositors who carry large balances. They had the signature book before them. To copy the signature of a large depositor was an easy matter. They would forge the depositor's name to an order, not a check, to forward $5,000 cash to him. After this money was entered in the bank's books, by the bookkeeper, it was destroyed, and, consequently, no evidence was left by which the defalcation would be detected in the checking up. Duke and Robertson were the two men able to carry on this system, and neither of them had done it single-handed.

"It was easy to watch the account from which the $5,000 had been taken, and when it became uncomfortably small, and another order on another account was forged, and the money credited to the first account.

"It was clever work, but it was just a question of time until discovery."

BONDS FOR ROBERTSON.

Money Raised by Friends and He May Be Free Today.

At the meeting of the Elks lodge last night an effort was made to raise bonds for Robertson, and a sufficient number of members to raise the necessary fund signified their intention to sign the bond, but a hitch in the construction of the instrument defeated the attempt. Another effort will be made to raise the amount today.

When the matter was called up nearly all the members present signified their willingness to sign the bond, and the necessary sum was raised. Justices Nielsen and Assistant County Attorney Ritter were sent for and a bond was prepared. After the instrument had been written, it was discovered that it was illegal, for another bond was then prepared in accordance with the laws.

Two men had signed the instrument when the question was raised as to whether or not each signer would be held liable for the full amount of the bond. The attorneys held that according to the terms of the instrument, each signer could be held liable for the full amount, although the court might not be able to collect more than the amount he signed for in case of a forfeiture. The Elks held that a bond could be fixed by which each signer could be held only for the amount he signed for, but the attorneys claimed that no such bond could be legal.

Accordingly, it was decided to allow the matter to go over until today, when an effort will be made to straighten the matter out and get a bond that will be satisfactory to the signers. It was with no little regret that the Elks saw this difficulty arise, for they were anxious to get their member out of jail last night, and could the bond have been satisfactorily arranged the necessary amount would have been raised before the Elks left the hall. Amounts from $100 to $5,000 were willingly subscribed by the members on a temporary list that was prepared.

DOOLY CALLS AGAIN.

Unable to Secure Any Information From Paying Teller.

Robertson's first caller at the Knutsford yesterday morning was Cashier John E. Dooly, who happened in shortly after breakfast. He found Attorney Joseph Lippman there with his client, and did not remain a great while. Mr. Dooly has endeavored during the past few days to obtain from Robertson information that would facilitate the work of checking up the accounts and getting at the exact amount of the shortage. But obeying to the letter the instructions of his counsel, Robertson declines to answer any questions whatever, referring them all to his attorney.

It is uphill work at the bank. Mr.

Dooly has for many years prided himself upon a perfect system of checking up, and this system is so elaborate, it is said, that the task is almost an insuperable one.

Not a great while ago it is said that Mr. Dooly informed the local banker chief his system of checking at the bank was the most perfect in the world, and the safest.

W. S. Ferris, the insurance man at whose home Robertson was living, returned yesterday from Montana and visited his friend for some time at the hotel.

HE PLAYED PING PONG.

Methods Used to Bring Robertson Out of Nervous Condition.

Ping pong, or table tennis, the rage of two continents, was one of the chief means employed to bring Robertson out of his nervous condition during his stay at the Knutsford. When the bank teller was taken to the hotel by Detective Sheets, about the first task his friends had to face was that of cheering up the despondent man. It was not an easy matter. He had everything, of course, in the way of physical comfort and luxury, but something to abstract his mind was a more imperative necessity.

Tuesday morning Councilman Davis showed up with a suspicious bundle under his arm. The contents were spread out on the table and Robertson, as well as Sheets, wanted to know the name of it.

"Why, this is ping pong," answered Davis, and with considerable skill, the councilman made them an exhibition of the popular game.

Many of the weary hours in the hotel since then were spent at ping pong, and with considerable skill, the councilman made them an exhibition of the popular game.

ONCE CITY TREASURER.

Harry Duke Has Long Been Connected With Wells-Fargo's Bank.

Harry T. Duke came to Salt Lake from Kentucky twenty years ago. His family is a celebrated one in the south, and among his relatives is Judge Thomas Marshall of this city.

In all the time that he has lived here, Duke has been connected with Wells, Fargo & Co.'s bank, holding, until yesterday, the post of assistant cashier. He was prominently identified with the Liberal movement some years ago, and served one term as city treasurer.

He married Miss Daft, a Salt Lake girl.

HER AMBITION THWARTED.

A GIRL COMMITS SUICIDE

Denver, Colo., July 2.—Disappointed in a love affair and in her ambition to become an actress, Miss Pauline Davidson, aged 24 years, committed suicide last night with chloroform. She had been working here as a domestic the past two months. Her parents live near Lawrence, Kan.

She left a note, with her picture, for the newspapers, in which she said:

"Now, make the most of the opportunity. I am about to die. I think it is about the only way I can make myself notorious."

MURDERER PAYS PENALTY.

August Schievie Hung for the Murder of Schulkowski.

St. Helens, Ore., July 2.—August Schievie was hanged here today for the murder of Joseph Schulkowski on Dec. 28 last.

Joseph Schulkowski had been discharged at the Presidio, San Francisco, from the United States army. In August, Schulkowski, with his savings, amounting to about $200 or more, came north and settled upon a claim near St. Helens.

He spent Christmas in St. Helens, and on the day after he started home on a heavily loaded horse. He was riding in the hills near St. Helens, and at 10 o'clock, he had traveled about seven miles, when he was shot from ambush by August Schievie.

The murderer left the house after the departure of his friend, and, going by a circuitous route on horseback, secreted himself in the underbrush, and when Schulkowski came along he shot the latter.

A few days later a 22-30 Winchester rifle cartridge shell was picked up near the scene. Afterward it was proven that the shell was fired from a gun owned by Schievie.

ADOPTED FATAL METHOD.

In Order to Save Themselves Three Brothers Lay Down on Trestle.

Youngstown, O., July 2.—Three brothers, Mike, Simon and Luke Shaokvie, were caught on the trestle of the Mahoning Valley electric line near St. Ruth's, four miles east of here, last night, and in an endeavor to escape injury, lay down on the edge of the rails. Mike had his leg and arm torn off, hip fractured and nose broken, and is in a critical condition. Luke was struck by the car, and died from a fractured skull. Simon was knocked off into a gulley, thirty feet below, and escaped with slight injuries.

MANY INJURED IN RAILROAD WRECK.

Bennington, Vt., July 2.—As a result of the derailing of the Troy-Montreal express on the Rutland road, at a switch at Housick, N. Y., near this city, today, about twenty-five people were injured, five seriously and one probably fatally. Serious injuries to the leg and arm of Allen Hucksensius, Philadelphia, 14 years of age; injuries to back; will probably be fatal. John Brovenche, baggage master, Rutland, back and side injured. Daniel O'Brien, North Adams, Mass., injured. William Doole, New York. J. R. Hutchinson, Sheldon, Vt. R. R. Parsons, conductor, of Rutland.

MORE RIOTS IN COAL DISTRICT

Many Strikers Sent to Jail in Defiance of Bail.

POLICEMEN UNDER ARREST

MINERS SEEM TO BE GROWING IMPATIENT.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 2.—A number of justices of the peace in Luzerne county were kept busy today giving hearing to men charged with participating in riots at coal mines. Early this morning Deputy Sheriff Eckert brought four men from Freedland, charged with engaging in a riot at that place. The prisoners were taken before Magistrate Pollock for hearing. A number of deputies testified that the prisoners gathered in the road leading to one of the mines this morning and tried to intimidate some fellow employees. One of the men pointed a revolver at one of the deputies. The riot act was then read, and the mob reneged. The deputy sheriff and his posse put the ringleaders under arrest. The magistrate held the defendants in $500 bail for trial. They could not furnish the bail and were sent to jail.

County Detective Phillips of Lackawanna county came to Duryea today and arrested seven of the coal and iron policemen there under arrest. They are charged with shooting yesterday the Italian whose body was found outside of the barricade. The officers were taken to Scranton and arraigned before Magistrate Holmes at 1:30 p. m.

The Wilkesbarre alliance made its first arrest today. A member of the United Mine Workers of America, William Welter, was arrested, charged with libeling merchants and others. There were fourteen counts against him. Magistrate Van Horn demanded $5,000 bail. The defendant was unable to furnish the bond and was sent to jail.

The alliance has offered $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of boycotters.

There came near being a serious riot at the Wilkes coal mine today. Charles A. Brown, a mining engineer, was on his way to the mine, when he was threatened by a crowd of strikers. Brown pulled his revolver and fired in the air, whereupon the guards behind the barricade at the colliery came out and fired into the air, causing the foreigners to fall back. After it was thought the trouble had subsided, Brown was arrested by Chief of Police Cosgrove of Duryea.

He was taken before Burgess Burlington, followed by a large crowd of angry Italians, and was held in $5,000 bail for trial. The police say they found four revolvers on Brown. Being unable to furnish bail, Brown was removed to the county jail. The first break in the ranks of the striking firemen occurred this afternoon, when three former employees of the Kingston Coal company applied for work and were given their old places.

Three of the firemen who went out at the Pine Ridge mine, at Miners' Mills, also applied for work. The superintendent of the colliery said they might have them, but the strike of steam men inaugurated on June 2, a large number of engineers and pumpmen have gone back to work, but three firemen had remained firm until today.

CUNNINGHAM REINSTATE.

(Special to The Herald.)

Washington, July 2.—Assayor Cunningham of the Boise mint, who was suspended yesterday by order of the president, has been reinstated. It was reported that the reinstatement was connected with matters in which Surveyor General Perrault was involved. Upon the discovery of this mistake Cunningham was promptly reinstated.

SMALL BOY'S DARING DEED.

Rescued Mother and Four Brothers From Burning Building.

Portland, Ore., July 2.—Bravery and presence of mind on the part of 13-year-old Michael Cohn saved his mother and four little brothers from being cremated this morning in a fire which destroyed the dwelling of the family at Hall and First streets.

Young Cohn went into the room, which was filled with smoke and flames, and dragged out his unconscious mother, and then returned and carried out each of his four little brothers in turn. Mrs. Cohn, who is subject to fainting spells, fell while carrying a lighted lamp. The house immediately took fire and Michael, assisted by his mother and the little brothers, succeeded in rescuing them all.

YOUNG SOCIETY WOMAN PLACED UNDER ARREST.

Philadelphia, July 2.—Mrs. Allene O'Malley, aged 34, wife of Austin O'Malley, professor of English literature at Notre Dame university, South Bend, Ind., and William Herin of New York, aged 39, were arrested here today on the charge of stealing jewelry valued at about $350, preferred by Mrs. O'Malley's brother-in-law, Dr. Joseph O'Malley of this city.

Both Mrs. O'Malley and Herin are said to come from prominent New York families, the accused woman having been Miss Ellis before her marriage. Professor O'Malley, the woman's husband, is in St. Agnes hospital, this city, suffering from paralysis, caused, it is believed, by ptomaine poisoning. The couple have been married only a few months.

KING DISAPPOINTED BECAUSE HE COULD NOT VIEW PARADE.

LONDON, July 2.—King Edward had passed another good day. The quiet and routine of the sick room was varied today by the excitement of listening to the music and cheers of the Indian troops as they marched past the palace and greeted Queen Alexandra on the balcony.

King Edward was somewhat disappointed that he was not able to see the march past of the troops. He had hoped that this would be possible from an invalid couch in a window of the palace, but the doctors were unwilling that he should risk this exposure, and excitement, and his majesty had to content himself with hearing the troops without seeing them.

At a late hour tonight the king's improvement continued. It was announced that he had partaken of a fairly good dinner and smoked a cigar. The prince and princess of Wales gave a brilliant dinner party at York house tonight in honor of the visiting Indian princes.

A unique and impressive scene was witnessed in St. Paul's cathedral tonight when some 2,000 doctors assembled beneath the dome of the building and offered prayers for the king's recovery. Many of the doctors wore their academic robes. A litany was sung, the doctors joining in the singing. At the conclusion of the service the congregation sent a message to Queen Alexandra, expressing its fervent wishes for his majesty's speedy recovery.

The review of the East Indian troops today was largely a repetition of yesterday's function, but the varied coloring of the uniforms of representative corps from all parts of Hindustan formed an altogether more picturesque spectacle.

The British fleet, which assembled off Spithead for the proposed coronation review, dispersed.
